A Mistake.

The impression appears to prevail among many Democrats that we have no Job Office connected with the SEN-TINEL office. This is a mistake. There is no office in the city that is so well prepared to do all kinds of BOOK. AND JOB PRINTING as we are (except large bill posters), only in the city, but in the State, for any work they can send to our office. We have no public patronage to depend on to aid the paper-we ask the party to aid us with their work, as far as they can. We can do as good work, and on as good terms, as any other office.

THE RESERVE AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY NAMED IN Valuable Documents.

We have for sale the following valuable documents and ask Democrats in every County and Township in Indiana to club together and send for them, for distribution:

DESTRUCTION OF A FEDERAL TRAIN. AFFAIRS AT CHARLESTON. MEXICAN NEWS.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 16 - The Tribune's special to-day, from Manassas, says: A loyal black came into camp last evening, and reported the arrival of a rebel soldier from Jackson's army at Sudley church, near Buli Run field, the object of which was to learn the number of troops at this point, and return to Jackson. At midnight a few men from Major Duffey's command went out and captured him, and he is now a prisoner at headquarters. Reports are current now here that Jackson has been reinforced. Dispatches to this date from General Halleck have been received at the War Department. They present no new features with regard to Beauregard's army, which is supposed to still remain in the vicinity of Okalona. Overton and Columbus dispatches from the ing, indicate that all is quiet in front of Richmond. Gen. Dix informs the Department that the military telegraph has been completed to Nortolk

The correspondent of the Times in the army of the Potomac, on the evening of the 13th says: The right wing of the army to-day was attacked by the rebels about 11 o'clock, who succeeded in capturing nearly all the pickets of company H, 5th regiment of cavalry. A scouting party of company F was attacked by a large rebel force. but made a good fight. On the retreat our small force burned and destroyed their tents, &c. The rebels succeeded in taking a few prisoners. Our force retreated to the Chickahominy, but the rebels did not follow. The rebeis now hold a position at Old Church, but will probably be driven

Another correspondent, dating Fair Oaks, 13th states that the 1st Excelsior charged on the rebels driving them out of some deserted houses. but being reinforced the rebels again advanced and burnt the houses. Five of the Excelsiors were killed. Several rebels were seen to fall An attack is momentarily expected, and wagons, ambulances, &c., have been sent to the rear and troops kept under arms. The Tribune's correspondent, under date of Savage's Station, June 14, says:

The down train from our advance last evening to the White House, was attacked by the enemy four miles from the lower station, which is the terminus of the road.

This road is the principal machine which supplies our army with food and ammunition, and which rapidly moves troops from the transports to the front. It is indispensible to the army, lit erally indispensible. It was soldierly audacity which led a squadron of 160 rebel cavalry around our right, down to the track, and there awaited till just about moon rise for the train. A rail previously removed secured the stoppage of the cars; the cutting of the telegraph wires seured the enterprise from publicity, and from interruption. When the expected train came opposite the ambush it was fired upon, six men in the cars and on their roofs are said to have been killed A Colonel and a Major, supposed to have been on the train, are missing; a Captain and eight privates are positively said to have been cap

The cavalry finished their work by burning part of the train, and drmaging the road so extensively that not a car traversed the line from 8 P. M. till 11 o'clock the next morning. This was bad enough in its direct and positive effects, not to speak of its suggestions; but more remains.

These bold horsemen foraged close up to the White House, and carried terror with them as they went. They plundered and burned several vessels in the Pamunkey river, swept down on a huge wagon train, and, it is said, burned a train of full sixty wagons, killing a number of team sters. This made so decided an impression on the nerves of authority at the White House that the s ck, wounded and women were burried on board the steamer Spaulding, which has a safe guard of iron plating.

Steam was instantly got up on all the other vessels in the stream, and very many of them dropped from their mooring, and went below to positions of fancied safety. It is positively said the marauders were Stone-

STATUTES OF INDIANA:

GAVIN & HORD'S REVISION.

The second volume of Mesars. Gavin & Hord's compiletion of Indiana Statutes has just appeared. This volume completes their work. Its mechanical execution is very creditable; and the skill, learning, and labor which the editors have bestowed on it, merit the highest praise. None but learned, diligent lawyers could have produced

The second volume embraces all the public statutes of Indiana now in force upon the subjects to which it relates, and the first all excepting the acts of the last regular and extra sessions of the Legislature. It is a great excellence of the compliation that all existing statutes on each subject are collected together, in the same place in these volumes; so that il a reader can see at a glance all the legislation in force on any given subject. Take, for example, the act of 1852, organizing Courts of Common Pleas-the editors publish the act at large, and they also print, in the form of notes on the same pages containing this statute, all the acts amendatory to it which have been passed up to this time. And so they have done of all the other acts contained in the revision of 1852.

The editors have added much to the value of these volumes-especially the last-by the copious and learned notes with which the volumes abound. These notes indicate much labor and legal acumen. They furnish us, in a concise and accurate form, with all the adjudications of our Supreme/Court on these statutes. These adjudications being now very numerous, the references to them in the volumes under consideration, will be of great value to the lawyer, and indeed to all persons concerned in the administration of justice. The editors have also referred, in their notes, to numerous decisions in other States, made on statutes similar to ours.

An excellence of these vo-ames, not to be overlooked, is the full and accurate index appended to each. In Indiana, there never has been a good index to any volumes of statutes published by authority. This provoking defect has been completely remedied in the volumes under review; and these indexes will greatly lighten the labor of all who have occasion to look juto our statutes. This is the first time that private enterprize has attempted the publication of Indiana statutes. The sttempt, I do not doubt, will be successful, and will duly reward the learned editors and enterprising publishers. Every lawyer will, of course, purchase these volumes; and every clerk, sheriff, and justice of the pence of the State, will find it to his advantage to own them. DAVID M'DONALD.

Indianapolis, June 5, 1862.

The 'oregoing notice by Judge McDexard, of GAVIN & Hour's Compilation of the Statutes of Indiana, is not designed as a puff of the work, but is an unsolicited commendation of the ability, accuracy, and completeness with which these volumes have been prepared. The second volume, which has just been issued from the press, is being delivered to subscribers as rapidly as possible. This edition of the statutes will be found a necessity to every lawyer, justices of the peace, and county officers in the State. The publication of the work is a private enterprize, and the publishers' only hope for remuneration is in its sale to these for whose convenience it was prepared. The two volumes contain about 1800 pages of matter, nearly double the quantity embraced in the revision of 1852. The price of the work is $4 50 per volume, or $9 00 for the two volumes. Orders addressed to the subscriber wil

JAMES GAVIN AND OSCAR ORD.

Volume 1, Published by

BINGHAM & DOUGHTY, INDIANAPOLIS. Judge David McDonald; one of the most eminent lawyers of the State, volunteered the following ecommendation of the work: STATUTES OF INDIANA, BY GAVIN & HORD .- Some months ago, the above named gentlemen issued proposals for publishing, in two volumes octavo of some 200 pages each, al the statutes of the State passes since 1851, with annotations. The first volume of the work is now published; and the manner of its execution, both mechanically and editorially, deserves the thanks of the profession. The imperfect manner of publishing our statutes under State authority, has always been a source of great incom-venience to the indiana Lawyer. The revision of 1852, as well as the statutes passed since that year, might almost as well have been published without any index. Up to this time the lawyer has constantly been under the neces-sity of turning over, leaf by leaf, the volumes o our statutes to find any particular enactment. And every one knows how annoying and provoking this is, especially in the hurry of business as in our Court: Happily for the profession, the publication under consideration promises a better state of things in the future. The first volume of Messrs. Gavin & Hord's work contains an excellent and copious index, which to every practicing lawyer in the State is itself worth the money which the volume costs.

The volume under review contains another excellence Allits pages are supplied with valuable marginal indices, so that a glance at the margin is sufficient to apprise the eader of the contents of the page. Another matter of great importance to the lawyer in this volume is a good collection of the subjects of all leg-islation since 1851. Heretofore, the lawyer in examining our legislation on any given subject had first to find what was relevant to it in the Revision of 1852, and then to turn over the pages of the volumes of subsequent Statutes, to see how far recent legislation may have repealed or mod-fied the provisions contained in that Revision, and even then he would often feel doubt whether he had found all the legislation on the subject of his inquiry. Messrs. Ga-vin and Hord have relieved as of all this trouble and doubt. They have collected together in consecutive pages all the statutes made since 1851, on the same subject. Thus, on pages 373 to 377 of their first volume they have collected all our legislation, now in force, on the subject of husband and wife, including the act of 1852 and three acts of 1857. And they have followed the same mode or coocation, in appropriate consecutive pages, in regard to all other topics of legislation. A still more valuable feature are the copious and accurate notes contained in the volume in question. This volume includes the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of Indiana, and several important acts of Virginia and statutes of Congress, and a large portion o our own statutes now in force. The numerous decisions of the Courts on the various provisions contained in these Constist tutions and statutes are found at the bottom of the appropriate pages, in the form of neat, brief and accurate note-and references. Messrs. Gavin & Hord seem to have per-formed this part of their work exceedingly well. It must have cost them much care and labor. By it they have greatly lessened the labor of the practising lawyer, and have well merited his grateful approval.

In every respect the volume under review is bighly reditable to the dilligence, accuracy, talents and the taste o its editors, as well as to the mechanical skill and neathers of its publishers, and it must raise the just expectation of the profession, as to the value of the second volume, which we understand will be forthcoming in a few months, and which will contain the code of pleading and practice of 1852, with subsequent amendments and other statutes.

Without any concert with the editors or publishers of the volume in question, the writer of this article has been induced to compose and publish this little review of the book, solely because he believes the editors and publishers deserve high commendation for their performance. He, therefore, deems it but just to them, without being solicited to it by any one, to publish this notice of the beat
